VERNAL HAPPENINGS.

Light Term of Court—Young Mother Dies—Snow in the Mountains.

Vernal, March 20.—Judge Dusenberry, L. R. Rhodes and Court Stenographer R. H. Roberts arrived here this evening.

The March term of the district court, which begins tomorrow, will probably be lighter than usual, as several of the more important cases are not ready to come to trial.

Amanda Caldwell, wife of Frank Caldwell, and a daughter of Tancum Taylor, one of the pioneers of Uintah county, was killed yesterday. She died last Friday, after a long illness, due to premature childbirth. The deceased was the mother of four small children, and her loving care will be greatly missed.

The recent heavy storms have made Uintah county a sea of mud, and instead of driving people from it to Vernal nowadays.

Parties who have lately come down from the mountains report the snow piling up nicely these days on the headwaters of the streams that irrigate the farm lands of the Uintah valley. The prospects are now considered favorable for good crops this season.

SHOT AT A MAN.

R. J. Dowdell of Springville Resorts Insult With a Gun.

Springville, March 22.—Last Friday night George Smith and R. J. Dowdell of this city were in Spanish Fork for an outing, and a small riot occurred, which ended in the arrest of both men. It seems that Dowdell had an altercation with some Spanish Fork youth, one of whom made insulting remarks about the former's wife. Dowdell at once resented this by drawing his pistol and discharging it in the direction of the offender, the shot going over his head. Dowdell paid a fine of $15 for the offense.

HIS LAST LETTER.

Message From Private Hartvigsen to Murray to His Father.

The following letter from Private Albert W. Hartvigsen, written to his father, Justice Hartvigsen of Murray, shortly before he was killed near Manila, will be read with interest by the readers of the Herald.

"Dear Father:—Knowing all of you will feel very anxious until you hear from me, I take this first opportunity, of letting you know that I am still alive and well. I am actually tired I can hardly keep awake. On the morning of the 4th, E. troop went out to blockhouse No. 12. Everything was quiet until 10 o'clock, when the enemy opened fire. We were then under a hail of bullets. Just as soon as it was light enough to see where they were, the First California volunteers and Washington volunteers made a tank movement and charged on the trenches and are still driving them. We are now in a position to take them at this time at blockhouse No. 13, and there the hardest fighting took place. When we were reinforced by the Fourth Infantry, they had only seven rounds of ammunition left. It was 4:45 p. m. before we drove them out of the trenches. The monitor Monadnock had all the time been throwing their shells at us. We were then relieved at 10 o'clock p. m. that night—four hours without a wink of sleep. Yesterday the Sixth I. and two others in the troop were sent out in the morning to take up all the dead negroes we could find and let the main fatigue party know where they were (I can't write what I saw, but I'll tell you when I get home). They make the soldiers' hearts right to see them dead, and it is the worst punishment they could possibly give them. Well, I reached the quarters last night at 6 p. m., and I was very tired. We had a good night's sleep, but not at 8:45 p. m. I was routed out to go on guard, at a college building that overlooks our quarters. The insurgents asked permission of the priests in charge to place sharpshooters up in the tower of the building so as to kill us. Well, I need rest and will quit, hoping this will relieve some of the anxiety that is for me. I remain your loving son.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Anne E. Springer of 1125 Howard street, Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of the Royal Cure that it was a revelation to her. She can now sleep soundly, something I feel like sounding its praises throughout the universe. So will you to consider the proposition already made to them by the residents of this place, it being decided that if this is not concurred in, all negotiations will cease, in which event the difficulty will be adjudicated through the courts.

The Latest In Sleeping Cars.

Causes of Loss of Hair

Dr. Sabouraud, the eminent French dermatologist, says that 95 per cent of the hair losses are the results of microbes and the neglect of dandruff. The antisepic action of

SEVEN SUTHERLAND SISTERS

Preparations kills microbes and removes dandruff. Their constant use for a period will, by acting directly on the hair bulbs, furnish nourishment, vitality and growing power to the hair, resulting in complete restoration.
